TIMELY TOPICS

CONSCRIPTION OR WHAT?

Now and again we get a scare in the dailies to the effect that the present minister of war is in favor of conscription, and that presently every able bodied man will need to serve his three years, or so, to learn the art of war. We count such scares, however, as bunkum, or idle dreams. What next? Do they think to put us on a par with such a country as Germany? Do such scare-mongers even expect that Canadian free men would submit to any such a regulation? We think not. Any government who had the temerity to try such a scheme would be doomed. Conscription indeed! Of what calibre are our statesmen if they cannot steer us clear of any such retrograde movements as that?

THE POWER OF THE MONEY MEN

Millionaires have at last found a vocation. Such men as Morgan, Carnegie, Rockefeller, the Goulds, the Rothschilds, at last have found a vocation. No country can now afford to do without its millionaires, for they have only to refuse to lend money and wars will be an impossibility. Perhaps that is why the German Emperor has been so friendly with Pierpont Morgan of late. It is understood that financially Germany is in a poor way, and though the Germans are making a great deal of bluff re their naval program, they are really not in the position financially to carry out such a huge naval program as they contemplate. Should those mounted men be able ever to avert a big war by refusing to back the countries financially they will be doing the nations a good turn.

But really have we not outgrown this war talk? Is not the time past when two civilized countries shall seek each others throats? It has been said of a truth that "war is hell," and those who have ever had anything to do with war declare it true. We do not approve of any men amassing millions of money, for they cannot do this justly, but we must appreciate their actions if they put their foot down and refuse to lend wealth for the purpose of killing their fellows.

CALGARY'S NEWSPAPER BOYS

There appears to be a number of citizens in Calgary who are greatly interested in the young people of that city, and rightly so, for the character of a city's future citizens, as well as that city's future welfare will be largely determined by the way in which the young are cared for to-day. Thus a law is coming into force concerning the welfare of the newspaper boys. Boys who would sell papers must be 12 years of age. The time in which they are allowed to sell or deliver papers is from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. in winter and to 9 p.m. in summer. Each boy must purchase a 25c license. No licensee may enter pool rooms, bar rooms or bowling alleys to ply his wares. These regulations are good, and if they are strictly adhered to will tend toward preventing that innocent but remunerative occupation from working to the disadvantage of the boys.

AN EVE-OPENER

What think ye, lovers of the weed, the number of cigarettes sold in Canada last year was $75,933,770, which is an increase of 206,728,071 above the sale last year, which figures up about six dozen for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. Cigarette smokers of to-day have great difficulty in persuading their conscience that they are doing a good thing in this indulgence. It is a lamentable fact that there is very great difficulty in some quarters in keeping lads from this vile and injurious habit. Whatever excuse cigar smokers may have, surely cigarette smokers must confess they are pandering to a low and exceedingly foolish, as well as an expensive habit.

THE FARMER AND BARLEY

It has been generally understood that the farmer benefits a certain industry when he grows barley and markets it. At the same time the idea is put forward that the distilleries are a distinct benefit to the farmer, in that they consume the barley produced by the farmer. But according to figures produced by United States officials the distilleries used seven million bushels, less than one per cent. of the United States barley crop in the year ending June 30, 1911.

There is a profitable use for barley on the farm. Hogs will ever be in demand the world over, as many as farmers can produce. Feed barley to hogs and the country will be richer by millions of dollars.

Lethbridge Exposition

The Lethbridge Exposition grounds are an extremely busy place at present, a large number of men being engaged under various contractors in putting up new buildings and getting things in shape for the Fair, which is to be Aug. 19th to 24th this year.

The new buildings include an administration building, a poultry house, a dog house, a swine stable, a sheep stable, a lot of new stables for horses and stock, a suitable entrance and various other improvements, - all costing some $25,000.

The result will be that Lethbridge will have one of the best equipped grounds in the West, and will be in a position to take care of the large exhibits in a first class manner.

The premium lists have been issued, large premiums being offered in all lines, and there is a good chance for many a farmer in this district to make an exhibit that will be a credit to the district and will also win for himself some of the good money that is offered.

Premium lists and further information can be obtained from the manager, J. W. McNicol, Lethbridge.

The Citizens' Lumber Co., of Warner, Alta., recently offered prizes for a gopher contest among the boys of that town. The contest ended and the final count of tails showed that 14,093 gophers were killed, all told. Ted Graham came in for first prize, with 1090 tails to his credit. This is a very worthy cause, and might well be taken up more generally in other towns. This district might enter into such a contest with great profit to all concerned.

A "Too-Late" Stamp

The only "too-late" stamp ever issued appeared in Victoria, in 1885. It bears the head of Queen Victoria, as do most of the stamps of the colony. The body of the stamp is in deep lines crossed by two bands of green. The upper band bears the words, "Too late," while the lower has the value or face "Sixpence." The "Too Late" stamp represented a tax or fee in addition to regular postage upon such letters as were received too late for the regular mail. In all large maritime cities much mail is sent out on outgoing vessels in early stamp periods a fast sailing packet, or, in fact, any sailing vessel, was often charged with the carrying of the mails. The heavy regular mail was carried by the regular mail on any specified day was sorted and dispatched in wagons, and the extra mail was carried by the scheduled time of sailing. A light supplementary mail was sent by special messenger. The mail consisted of such letters as arrived after the regular mail had closed, but were of sufficient importance to warrant the sender in the payment of a "too late" fee, which in Victoria was 10 cents. This supplementary mail was kept open until within a short time of the sailing hour, the time depending upon the distance between the post office and the dock of the vessel.

Probably got off.

Appropos of certain unfounded charges of drunkenness, the naval cadets at Annapolis, Admiral Dewey at a dinner in New York, told a story about a young sailor.

"The sailor, after a long voyage," he said, "went ashore in the tropics, and it being a hot day, he drank, in certain tropical lands, too much beer."

"As the sailor lurches under his heavy load about a palm-tree grove, his captain has him indignant."

"Look here," the captain said, "suppose you were my commander, and you met me in such a condition as you're in now, what would you do to me?"

"Well, sir," said the sailor, "I wouldn't consigned to take no notice of you at all, sir."

Once More

The miser dropped his pick and started with bulging eyes at the yellow marks which a stroke of the implement had just laid bare. For a minute he was struck speechless. Then, like one soon made he gave forth a wailing cry.

"What is it?" he cried breathlessly.

"Gold," yelled the other. "Pure gold!"

"Is that all?" exclaimed his partner disinterestedly.

"No," said the miser, "the yellow metal was made; one would think you had dug into a fitter's 'n' butler's—judge."

Tom: "I told her father that I expected to inherit several pieces of property."

Dick: "What did he say?"

Tom: "He said that I don't speak like those who do."

WHAT TO DO RIGHT NOW

Practical Suggestions by W. J. Glass, Hasted, Alberta.

(Written especially for the International Irrigation Congress Bulletin, "Dry-Farming.")

In answer to your inquiry as to what to do on the farm right now, I will say now is the time to get busy and work, get our seed into the soil (especially wheat), so that it will be matured before the frost.

No should have done our letter writing and studying during the winter months. Nevertheless, I will give a few hints as to how I work now and to prepare a seed bed and preserve the moisture, and also my opinion as regards the best periods to sow different cereals.

We all know that practically no fall plowing was done last year, therefore our land has either to be plowed this spring, or just ditched and drilled.

On account of such a short time and so much work to be done, and plowing taking longer than dicing, the question arises: "Is it necessary to plow or will dicing do?"

Plow Every Year

I am a firm believer in plowing every year, except on new land which has only had one crop taken from it, and is not well settled. Land in this condition may be fairly good, but can be dished a couple of times and then it will be fairly good results, although, as a rule, you do not get as large a yield.

Immediately after plowing use the packer, the same day if possible; this is to keep the land from drying out. If you haven't a packer, use a float. A four, five or six 2 x 10's, or 20 planks together, letting the second lay the first, and so on until you get the required size.

Of course, if you find your float is not heavy enough, you can weight it with stones. Do not forget, though, that old iron or anything with weight will do.

Methods of Cultivation

Now as to the cultivation before need after plowing or floating before dicing, all depends on condition of the soil. If very lumpy, dicing, if not, harrow will do. It should be cultivated until no lumps remain larger than a hen's egg.

We will not in any case advise using any implements after seeding that leaves the surface of the ground smooth, as this aids evaporation, and also leaves the land powdery on top, and the wind is likely to blow the soil.

As to the time of seeding, I believe from April until the end of the first week in May it is safe to sow wheat. After that date I would sow oats or barley until the end of May. I would summer fallow, I presume, if I had not needed my land last week in April or the first week in May and be through seeding by May 15th.

Summer Fallowing

Just a word about summer fallow: do not leave your summer fallow too late, but aim to June 1st.

By leaving the weeds grow they take plant food out of the soil from the seed.

Be sure and treat your grain for smut. I treat with formal at the rate of one pound to 25 gallons of water.

I have never had any smut, but I treat it as a preventive. Your grain is smut, make your solution.

The system I follow is to pour 4 bushels of grain in a wagon box, sprinkle with ordinary garden sprayer the solution over the grain and stir the kernels are all moist. Then shovel to the front end of the wagon box; then another lot.

Cover up with a canvas for a couple of hours and then spread out to dry. Haul the wagon out to the field and let the drill from the wagon.

As I write at the beginning this is a busy time, so goodbye.

HISTORIC TOWN VANISHING

First Capital Being Pulled Down by Mississippi

Within a few months more the last traces of old "Kaskasia," first capital of the State of Illinois and the first settlements of the white man in the Mississippi valley, will have disappeared.

The yellow Mississippi steadily pulling down the remaining land that was once a part of the town site. All that now remains is an old building that was once here as a "smokehouse" by some of the citizens. Houses, powder magazines, arsenals and fortifications have all slid into the river.

Kaskasia is still on the maps of Illinois, but the original town, as the State of Illinois is called, has failed to check the river's steady advances. A few years ago the Kaskasia river, usually known as the "Old river," began to cut into the west bank a mile or so above the town where it flows into the Mississippi. At first the river was a narrow channel, but it kept on cutting and cutting until it had reached the narrow neck of land that divided the town from the river. Finally the big river cut entirely across the spit of land and rock that had separated the two and old Kaskasia became an island.

When the river cut the spit of land where the smokehouse still lingered, the river was a narrow channel, but it kept on cutting and cutting until it had reached the narrow neck of land that divided the town from the river. Finally the big river cut entirely across the spit of land and rock that had separated the two and old Kaskasia became an island.

"You need not talk all the time, Ribbet," said the mother who had been interrupted.

"When will I be old enough to marry?" asked the little girl.

Earnest Love

In Chapter I, he shoots at her five times. After that crash!

"Yes, but then words are misfired," said the mother. "There ain't no sense left like that in real life."

Not only this—but these as well

Only think that concrete can be used only for building bridges, silos, walls and walks; because if you do, you will probably overlook all the places where you can use it now.

T. L. Irving, of North Georgetown, Quebec, used concrete for 81 different purposes on his farm in 1911.

There are probably at least a dozen profitable uses for concrete on your farm at the present moment.

Perhaps you haven't thought of concrete, except for a new barn, or a silo, or some other big improvement for which you aren't quite ready yet. That's why you should read

"What The Farmer Can Do With Concrete"

It will open your eyes to the hundreds of uses that other farmers have found for this material. In plain language, and with the aid of many photographs, it explains just what these uses are, and how they can be applied to your farm.

Concrete can not only be used for all the purposes to which wood has been applied, but also many other purposes for which wood would never be suitable.

It is not only a building material; it's a "handy" material, something that you'll grow to depend upon more and more.

So write for this book. You'll find it isn't a catalogue, nor an argument for you to buy or cement. Every one of its 160 pages is devoted to telling you what farmers have done and can do with concrete.

IT'S FREE FOR THE ASKING. Write for it on a postal, or in a letter, enclosing 10¢. A substitution on the north side of the city will soon be a up easily but not for the location has been reached as yet.

Charlie Phillips is sporting a fine new buggy these days. Sure it will prove a great boon to some "sweet young sixteen" during the hot or rainy weather this season.

The number of cattle shipped from Cayley from Jan. 1st to June 30th of the present year, was 5000 head. Where do so many come from so continuously?

Our football team find it very difficult to get the High River team to set a date to play the return match due our boys. Looks as though H. R. is kind of scared of the fate that awaits them.

A camping party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Scragg, Rev. and Mrs. Scragg of Innisfail, Miss Lane (sister of Mrs. Scragg) Jack Cohen and W. Hickling, are enjoying a few weeks among the hills.

Last Friday week Mr. Eversman had the misfortune to break his wrist while repairing some parts of his traction engine. The fracture caused him considerable pain and inconvenience, but is now progressing favorably.

We regret to learn that the Rev. O. E. Mann has recently lost his most useful driving horse by death. The members of his congregation at the Forks have generously offered a subscription list toward assisting him to replace it, as a horse is a necessity to Mr. Mann who fills three appointments every Sunday and drives over thirty miles.

Next Sunday, at 7:45, at the Methodist church, the Rev. O. E. Mann will preach upon the subject, "When Jesus passed by." A hearty invitation is given to all. Seeing that there is only one service conducted in Cayley on Sunday evenings the pastor of the Methodist church extends a hearty invitation to all in the neighborhood, regardless of creed or no creed.

The Rev. J. McLean Beaton, a special representative of the Provincial Sunday School association of the Province was in Raymond on Monday night, and addressed a meeting of Sunday school workers in the Presbyterian church. Mr. Beaton's particular mission was to interest Sunday school workers in the teacher training course mapped out by the different evangelical churches and to endeavor to interest the public in the summer schools which are being held in different parts of the province this summer, one nearest Raymond being that at Banff.

"A Citizen of No Mean City" was the subject dealt with by Rev. Mr. Mann in the Methodist church on Sunday last. A good congregation attended and the subject was listened to with great interest.

Mr. Mann dwelt upon the wonderful resources of this Canada of ours and declared God had ordained this country to be a wonderful country, containing the highest class of human beings the world has yet seen, consequently we urged upon his hearers the necessity of reaching out toward high ideals of citizenship. The fact of our great destiny, he assured his hearers, is sufficient to place upon every one of our great responsibilities which we must not overlook. Canada, he said, is as great as 30 England's, 18 Germany's, 12 India's 18 France's, 3 Italy's, and is as large as Europe. Drink, vice, oppression must be eliminated by the leavening influences of Christianity, and we must rise to our high destiny as a great nation.

No business in any town should allow a new sheet representing the business interests of its town to go without his name and business mentioned somewhere in its columns. This applies to all kinds of business—general stores, dry goods stores, grocers, furniture dealers, manufacturing establishments, automobile dealers, mechanics, professional men, and in fact all classes of business men. This does not mean that you should have a whole or even a quarter of a page ad. in every issue of the paper, but your business or the name of your profession should be mentioned whether you use a page or only a two line space. A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is in a town by looking at the businesses mentioned in the newspaper. This is the best possible town advertiser. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and to the community. He is the man who expects the paper to do his free boosting for him. The man that insists on sharing the business that comes to a town, but refuses to advertise his business, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of the town depends upon the wide-awake and advertising business man.

The "Hustler" at Banff

The Calgary Exhibition excursion left Calgary for Banff on June 28 at 8 a.m., and wound its way up the Bow River valley, which at this season of the year is restful for the eye to gaze upon. We arrived at 10:30 a.m. There being carriages in waiting at the station, we took one and drove to the park and viewed the buffaloes, angora goats and moose, all in their respective inclosures; then to the cave and basin, which are free to the public, only charging for bathing suits. From this point we were driven to the falls and around the loop and up to the Sanitarium Hotel. This drive was claimed to be fourteen miles, but we think seven would measure the distance. After a walk about the town we had luncheon at 12:45 at the Alberta Hotel, where the equipment was good but the other part of the luncheon could not be so much said for. After lunch we took a walk through the park, museum and grounds, where the caged animals were kept, specimens of all kinds found in the Rocky Mountain regions were to be seen. At 2 p.m. we started on a walk up the bridal path to the upper bath house hot springs, where we took an enjoyable swim in the pool of hot sulphur water to our heart's content. The bath house is a government one and only charges for bathing suits are made. After bathing and looking at the source of the spring we wended our way down the bridal path to the town, stopping on the way at the C.P.R. hotel for 6 o'clock dinner. Leaving Banff at 8 p.m., we arrived in Calgary at 10:45 p.m., having had an enjoyable day.
